

вопросов. На практике это означает, что исполнение кадровых и международных функций, а также хозяйственной административной работы осуществляют соответствующие управления и отделы Библиотеки им. Сечени, в то время как право решения вопросов, касающихся внутренних дел Центра, и в дальнейшем остается за его директором;

— национальной библиотеке мы передали два штата, предусматривавшие ранее выполнение задач развития и научно-исследовательской работы. Этим в Центре прекратилась работа по автоматизации и руководству научно-исследовательской работой. Выполнение этих двух функций в дальнейшем взяла на себя Библиотека им. Сечени.

Круг задач и профиль Центра библиотковедения и методической работы сузился, в то же время вес его не уменьшился, т. к. дальнейшее развитие компетенции специализированного контроля масштабов страны значительно повышает роль учреждения.

THE ACTIVITY OF THE CENTRE FOR LIBRARY SCIENCE AND METHODOLOGY IN THE YEARS 1982 — 1983

In 1982 we worked on the realization of our plans under more adverse circumstances than usual. Following the resignation of the former director in the first quarter of the year, the activity of the Centre was managed by a commissioned director for half a year. After Ferenc Sente had been nominated to the post of director, the reorganization of the institute was started in November according to the intentions of the 1979 supervisory inquiry of the Ministry of Education. Changes were aimed at a reasonable approach to the National Széchényi Library on the one hand, and at a more rational division of labour between the National Széchényi Library and its Centre for Library Science and Methodology on the other. In the course of 1982 we made some modifications in our plans of work with the approval of the Department of Libraries of the Ministry of Education, and some of our tasks were put off till 1983. However, some of them still remained unfinished, though our operative activity directed towards libraries had become more intensive, surpassing plans and expectations. Our reserves also became more obvious, which include the following: more effective forms of activity; a more reasonable internal division of labour; closer cooperation with the leading authorities of libraries, primarily with the Department of Libraries of the Ministry of Education, with different bodies of the National Library Council, with the National Library, and with other libraries with country-wide responsibilities.

At the beginning of 1983 corrections were made in the goals, tasks, and organization of the Centre for Library Science and Methodology as the result of many internal discussions and external negotiations. The essentials of these changes may be summed up in two points:

- many clerical tasks were handed over to the National Széchényi Library while retaining authority to make decisions. In practice, this means that the clerical duties involved in personnel management and international relations, as well as the administration of financial affairs are carried out by the proper departments of the National Széchényi Library, while the authority to make decisions in the Centre's affairs rests with its director;
- two permanent posts of the Centre were given to the National Széchényi Library for developmental and research co-ordinating tasks. Thus, all activities in the field of computerization and research management ceased in the Centre. These two tasks are to be fulfilled by the National Széchényi Library in the future.

Though the tasks and the profile of the Centre for Library Science and Methodology have become less complex, it has not lost of its significance, since the increasing of the authority to supervise all the country's libraries enhances the role of the Centre for Library Science and Methodology considerably.
