

Authors

IWONA BARWICKA-TYLEK (PhD), Assistant Professor in the Department of Political and Legal Doctrines at the Faculty of Law and Administration at the Jagiellonian University of Cracow. Her main interests are the history of European political thought and the methodology of the humanities.

FERENC HÖRCHER (PhD, DSc), director of the Institute of Philosophy of the Research Centre for the Humanities of the Hungarian Academy of Science, full professor at the Department of Aesthetics, Pázmány Péter Catholic University, where he also chairs the Doctoral School for Political Theory. His books include Prudentia Iuris. Towards a Pragmatic Theory of Natural Law (Akadémiai Kiadó, 2000). He prepares a volume on Aristotelian political conservatism.

JAKUB JIRSA teaches ancient philosophy and ethics at the Department of Philosophy and Religious Studies, Faculty of Arts, Charles University. He studied at Central European University and at the University of Cambridge.

KELVIN KNIGHT is Reader in Ethics and Politics at London Metropolitan University, Director of CASEP, the Centre for Contemporary Aristotelian Studies in Ethics and Politics, and author of Aristotelian Philosophy: Ethics and Politics from Aristotle to MacIntyre (Polity Press, 2007). He is currently writing a monograph on the philosophy of human rights.

PETER LAUTNER studied philosophy, history and classics at Eötvös University Budapest and teaches philosophy at Pázmány Péter Catholic University. His main interest is in ancient philosophy and ethics.

BALAZS M. MEZEI is Professor of Philosophy at Peter Pazmany Catholic University. He published 11 book and more than 150 scholarly articles on the philosophy of religion, phenomenology, political philosophy, and literary criticism. He has been a visiting scholar at various American and European universities. Most recently he published Religion and Revelation after Auschwitz (Bloomsbury, 2013).

WALTER NIGGORSKI, Emeritus Professor, Liberal Studies and Political Science, University of Notre Dame, U.S.A. Areas of Specialization: Political Philosophy, Cicero Studies, American Founding, Liberal & Character Education.

CATHERINE ZUCKERT earned her PhD in Political Science at the University of Chicago. She is currently Nancy Reeves Dreux Professor of Political Science and Editor-in-Chief of The Review of Politics at the University of Notre Dame in Notre Dame, Indiana, USA.