

LECTORI SALUTEM!

Dear Readers,

All the discipline have their milestones. We hope publishing this journal is such a milestone in criminal geography, since, criminal geographical journal has not been published yet as far as we know.

Many years of organization, the involvement and hard work of dozens of researchers have preceded the publishing of this scientific journal.

The Criminal Geographical Journal was founded by Hungarian researchers, and later researchers from other countries have joined to the editorial board.

I really hope that this journal will help developing criminal geographic researches, and more and more research results and studies will be published that can be used in practice in law enforcement.

The editorial board consists of researchers from 6 countries. This guarantees that different criminal geographical aspects will be represented in the journal. We plan to further broaden the editorial board.

I wish you useful pastime with the CGJ. If you have any ideas or feedbacks to develop this journal, please share them with the editorial board.

We are waiting for your scientific articles, reviews and any other relevant script.

Szabolcs Mátyás

Chair of the editorial board

Authors of this issue

Antal Forró Ph.D. student, University of Debrecen Department of Social Geography and Regional Development Planning

Ákos Erdős finance guard major assistant lecturer, Ph.D. student, National University of Public Service Faculty of Law Enforcement Department Customs and Finance Guard

Andrea Pődör Ph.D. associate professor Óbuda University

Szabolcs Mátyás Ph.D. police major, assistant professor, National University of Public Service Faculty of Law Enforcement

János Sallai Ph.D. police colonel, professor and head of department, National University of Public Service Faculty of Law Enforcement

Lectors of this issue:

Andrea Szabó Ph.D. finance guard colonel, associate professor, head of department National University of Public Service Faculty of Law Enforcement

Csaba Patkós Ph.D. associate professor, Head of Institute, Head of Department Eszterházy Károly University Institute of Geographical and Environmental Science Department of Social Geography and Regional Development